

You've Been Loved

I see the time
Slowly slipping away
And memories become
Harder and harder
To recall.
Once so vivid
perfect and clear.
Now blurred.
A ceaseless mirage
Of vague tall tales.
'Goodbye'
I wish I said
Had I known
It'd be over.
Left now
With a longing
A gaping hole
In my mind.
'Come back'
'I need you'
my pitiful calls.
'When will I see you again?'
But these feelings are lost
Gone when I realize
That you spent
Your lifetime
Trying to do well.
With time comes fading
And all memories must fade
But forever you remain
In our hearts and minds.
And now it's long gone
The bereavement I endured
So you can finally
Enjoy,
Rest peacefully,
And dream
In the world far above
Knowing now
That you've been loved.